CAPER is the centre for statistical information on postgraduate medical education in Canada. CAPER maintains individual-level data for all postgraduate medical residents and fellows. Data are gathered on an annual basis from all 17 Canadian Faculties of Medicine. CAPER gathers data throughout postgraduate training as well as ongoing practice location, following post-M.D. training.

The Annual Census of Post-M.D. Trainees is CAPER's flagship report. It gives a detailed statistical profile of post-M.D. trainees in Canada, including:

- The numbers and types of physicians being trained in family medicine, surgical, laboratory and other medical specialties;
- The socio-demographic characteristics of postgraduate trainees, such as age and sex distribution;
- The distribution of post-M.D. trainees across provinces and Faculties of Medicine;
- The numbers of international medical graduates (IMGs) and visa trainees studying in Canada;
- The numbers of residents and fellows exiting post-M.D. training programs;
- Ongoing practice location of postgraduate trainees following training.

Established in 1986, CAPER is a partnership of professional medical organizations and federal/provincial/territorial governments. CAPER would like to acknowledge and thank the following partners for their financial support:

- Association of Faculties of Medicine of Canada
- Canadian Association of Interns and Residents
